Added value is leveraged primarily through instruments that set targets and incentives for the efficient use of more climate-friendly and circular materials

Added value is leveraged primarily through instruments that standardise, collect and report, and evaluate data on the carbon footprint of materials and products